The 6th Annual Black Male Development Symposium will be held Saturday, May 15, 2010, at Arcadia University, 450 South Easton Road, Glenside, PA. The symposium title for this year is: WMD: Weapons of Mass Distraction: The Three R's for the Future: How do we help our youth Refocus, Redefine and Revitalize their priorities? As you are well aware this type of effort takes a tremendous amount of physical, spiritual and monetary support. We have a large supply of the physical and spiritual support we are in need of a little more support on the monetary level. There are several opportunities we would like to present as possibilities of gaining your support for the symposium:

- Provide scholarships for students from your community. The cost of admission for students is $25 which includes: a book/DVD from a presenting author, a one-year membership to the African American Museum, lunch (sponsored by Brown's Shoprite), a T-shirt and a conference bag
- Commit to selling/purchasing 10 tickets to the BMDS reception at the African American Museum, Saturday, May 8, 2010 which will feature the Raising Him Alone Campaign for Single Mothers (ticket cost $15)
- Purchase a personal/organization ad for the program booklet
- Become a BMDS liaison and connect the project with resources and funding opportunities from organizations/agencies that can assist the 2010 symposium

During the meeting a screening of one of the films from the Symposium's Film Festival, Bring Your A Game, will be shown.

The following dates have been extended:

Call for Papers: Submission has been extended to Friday, March 26, 2010

Sponsorship Ads: Ads will be accepted until, Wednesday, March 31, 2010
